An Advertisement in The Times Will THE WALKING DELEGATE.

Defense of This Much Maligned Trades Union Official.

The Rev. Charles Stelzie, head of the labor department of the Presbyterian church, in his comments upon "The Human Side of the Labor Question" has this to say about the greatly misunderstood "walking delegate:"

"For an employer to know personally a thousand men and to deal with them individually is an otter impossi billity. Because of the nature of pres ent day industry collective bargaining has become a necessity. This must be true at least so far as general matters are concerned. Furthermore, the employer may really be divided into a millions to put down for the starting listed.

At a church in an English country to do this; so has the individual employer a right to have a manager reperent his interests. It is also perfectly legitimate for a number of concerns to combine and form a so called trust, which combination of interests may elect a general manager.
